

Somewhere in heaven, a bear named Spiffy is receiving her assignment from Zen.

Zen: Spiffy, you go help a lady in need of learning how to keep a house and cook. If she masters it, she'll get a marriage proposal from her boyfriend. She needs to learn this first, and once he proposes, you can leave and return to heaven.

Spiffy: I will earn my black belt while keeping the house clean.

Zen: A good time to go would be when you arrive, and you'll find yourself in her old toy box.

Spiffy: Alright, that works for me.

Spiffy has made its way into the toy box.

Lady: Ouch, what's this old box?

Oh, I remember now—my old toy box!

She opened the box and found a maid bear inside.

Lady: If only you could come to life and help me learn to be a good little housewife.

The next day, Spiffy came to life, crafted by Zen Angel.

Spiffy: Time to wake up, sleepyhead, we've got work to do.

Part of being a good housewife is getting up at the crack of dawn and having your husband's meal ready on the table.

Lady: Wow, you can talk! My wish came true, wow!

Spiffy: No time for explanations, let's get started!

they're downstairs.

Spiffy: This fridge holds food, so take this egg and crack it like this. Now, give it a try!

Lady: No way, it actually happened! By the way, what should I call you?

Spiffy: I'm sorry, but you can call me Spiffy now. It's time to make bacon, and I'll show you how.

Spiffy said, "Enough breakfast, it's time to work on house cleaning."

She started with the dishes, showing her how to do them.

Spiffy: What's your name?

Lady: Judy

Spiffy: Good, thank you. One more thing, only you can see and hear me.

Judy: Got it, what's next?

Spiffy: Vacuuming.

They are now doing the same thing, then heading to the bedrooms to make her bed.

After that, they'll tackle the unpleasant task of cleaning the bathrooms and toilets.

Spiffy: Using a toothbrush is great for making bathroom tiles sparkle.

Judy: Wow, that's really great!

Spiffy: Now you try it, good job, Judy!

Judy thanked Spiffy for all she had taught her, then decided to go out and have some real fun.

Judy: Why isn't my car starting?

She forgets she's a doll in the dollhouse, destined to stay inside forever.

Judy went back inside and tried to turn the TV on, but it wouldn't come on.

Judy: This is just great—my car won't start, the TV won't turn on, and this day is just not going well.

Spiffy: Let me give it a shot.

Spiffy didn't have any luck either.

Judy looked down and noticed a real car in the garage.

Judy: A car that's running, I grab the keys and finally get out of here.

Judy made a big jump down, using a stick to grab the keys.

She tried to unlock the door and now she's in the driver's seat, but she's way too short to reach the pedals.

Spiffy couldn't stop laughing at her!

Judy: I know this car; it's my boyfriend Greg's car.

Spiffy: I think you got turned into a doll.

Judy: How am I supposed to get a marriage proposal if I'm a doll?

Spiffy: Good question, I'll ask my superior.

she asked her superior, and Spiffy returned with an answer.

Spiffy: As soon as I learn how to keep house, I'll turn back to human size.

Judy: Can she get the doll's TV set to work?

Spiffy: She said, "No, I'll do it all today. You'll be back to your normal size again."

Judy and Spiffy work really hard, and Judy is doing a great job. However,

Judy accidentally drenched Spiffy while trying to fill the mop bucket, and Spiffy retaliated by drenching Judy in return.

Both the girls burst into laughter.

Spiffy: See? Housework can actually be fun!

Lunch time

Spiffy: Let's see how to make a sandwich to perfection.

Judy: Piece of cake, anyone? Make a sandwich, geez!

Spiffy: this has to be seen.

Judy: What flavor?

Spiffy: Ham and cheese.

Judy made a sandwich, cut it in half, and placed it on a plate.

Spiffy: very good now eat so we can move on

Judy: Make it real, please.

Spiffy finished their tasks and returned after completing the afternoon housework.

Spiffy: Take out the trash, you're done, my dear.
All that's left is dinner and dessert.

and while waited for dinner time

Zen: got chores outside like mowing and raking leaves and planting garden then chores are done

Judy: Mowing the lawn is men's work.

Zen: No, it's not. Get cracking, or you'll stay a doll, alright?

Judy: Alright, but not quite my thing.

Spiffy: here mower get started faster you get done you can rest

Judy: Okay, I will.

Judy mowed the lawn without missing a spot, and now she's raking up the leaves.

Chores outside are done

Spiffy: its time wash the car and windows and do laundry inside

Judy: No more chores; I'm starting to rethink this whole housewife thing.

Spiffy: Once you learn to manage your time, handling housework becomes a piece of cake.

They washed the car and cleaned all the windows, and now they're inside getting ready to start the laundry.

Spiffy: Separated whites and darks first.

Judy: Fine, I will. Why can't I throw them in together?

Spiffy, your white stuff turns red and pink, and that's the reason why.

Spiffy: You turn the dial to about this position, then hit start.

Judy: This looks simple enough.

The clothes are now in the dryer; Judy put them in.

Spiffy: Now set the dryer here, press start after putting the clothes in.

A few minutes later, Judy finished with the dryer. Spiffy showed her how to fold the clothes, and now it's time to make dinner.

Spiffy: Tonight, meatloaf and mashed potatoes! First, get out eggs, meat, and tomato sauce.

Mix them together and put the mixture into a casserole dish. Bake it in the oven for 15 minutes, then check it.

Bake for another 15 minutes or until it turns brown and the sauce is bubbling.

spiffy shows her how to make mash potatoes and set the table

All done and ready to eat, with meatloaf and mashed potatoes on the dinner table.

Judy suddenly fell asleep but woke up back in her normal body, just in time to enjoy the meal.

Judy: Yes, I am back in my own body, yes, yes, yes! I forgot to plant flowers in the garden oh well.

Judy: Does Greg want to come over and try some of my homemade cooking?

Greg: I can't, I have a date tonight—I'm popping the question.

Judy: I spent time learning how to be a proper housewife, even though there was no real reason for it.

Greg: Let's face it, you're not marriage material. Goodbye.

Greg showed up with flowers.

Judy: You said I wasn't the right one.

Greg got down on one knee, proposed, and Judy said yes!

Greg, you had me at Meatloaf.

Judy: you're a little sneak.

A spiffy return to heaven, job well done!

The End
